

Chowrasta Market

Written by Administrator II
Wednesday, 09 March 2011 17:33 -

By Helen Ong

If there's one thing we Malaysians love, that's our pasars (markets); they have been dispensing fresh food, cheap clothes and knick-knacks to us since long before the advent of hygienic but personal-less, air-conditioned supermarkets.

There's something very lau juak (cheerful) about these noisy, bustling places, whether you go in the early morning, afternoon, or night. Sweaty bodies aside, there's some great camaraderie and entertainment to be had as you jostle with the rest of the punters, wondering amongst the stalls with your bakul (basket), picking and prodding, haggling and rejecting.

Chowrasta Market

Written by Administrator II
Wednesday, 09 March 2011 17:33 -

Chowrasta Market

Written by Administrator II
Wednesday, 09 March 2011 17:33 -

http://www.scribd.com/doc/51111111/Chowrasta-Market

Chowrasta Market

Written by Administrator II
Wednesday, 09 March 2011 17:33 -

